2011 Annual Conference (41st)

President's Welcome

Welcome to the 41st Atlantic Schools of Business Conference in beautiful Prince Edward Island, the "Birthplace of Confederation" and home to some of the finest seafood in the world!

ASB's mission is to support and encourage the exchange of ideas in higher education. Initially, our members came primarily from the universities in Atlantic Canada, but in recent years we have welcomed national and international scholars to showcase their research. We continue the tradition of bringing post-secondary researchers and educators together to disseminate their research in the administrative sciences and pedagogy. As such, the conference represents an opportunity to publish peer-reviewed research in the proceedings or receive feedback for works-in-progress in a collegial setting. The ASB conference also provides an excellent venue for graduate students to present their work and exchange ideas.

So enjoy the conference but be sure to take some time to sample the wonderful hospitality and cuisine of PEI.

*Jean Helms Mills,
ASB President*

Letter from the Conference Chair

It is with great pleasure that we welcome you to the University of Prince Edward Island for the 41st Atlantic Schools of Business Conference (ASB). We are pleased to report that we have over 83 paper, case, poster, and symposium submissions to be presented over two conference days. As with past ASB conferences, our submissions continue to grow beyond the Atlantic Canada region to include universities in Ontario, Quebec, the U.S., and France. We are pleased to have our academic key note speaker, Dr. Denise Rousseau, H. J. Heinz II University Professor of Organizational Behavior and Public Policy at the Heinz College of Public Policy, Information and Management, and the Tepper School of Business at Carnegie Mellon University and past president of the Academy of Management, presenting in the Doctoral and Early Career Consortium as well as the Plenary session. In addition, the industry key note speaker, Mr. Duncan Shaw, General Manager of Cogsdale, will be here to discuss the connection of our teaching with industry.

This conference would not be possible without all the help of the many volunteers from universities around the region. I would like to thank all of our track chairs for their diligent efforts to coordinate the review process and provide feedback to authors who submitted papers. I am also grateful for the continued support and guidance from the ASB executive, especially our President, Dr. Jean Helms Mills, who was always willing to lend a hand and provide insights about conference planning, and Mr. Ian Feltmate who was amazing with developing, updating, and maintaining the ASB website. Finally, I would like to thank the conference planning team from UPEI, Dr. Susan Graham, Ms. Amanda Strongman, Mr. Alan Duncan, Dr. Blake Jelley and Mrs. Nicole Higginbotham, and from Saint Mary's University, Mr. Chris Hartt. A special thanks to our EMBA graduates, Ms. Heather Rossiter, Mrs. Jean Kimpton, Mrs. Anne MacAulay, and Mr. Scott Wilson, and EMBA current students, and our EMBA team, Mrs. Grace McCourt and Ms. Angela MacDonald, who stepped in to help us coordinate the event. The support of our outgoing Dean, Dr. Roberta MacDonald, and incoming Dean, Mr. Alan Duncan, have been greatly appreciated to make this conference come together.

Thanks to universities around the region for graciously sponsoring events during the conference. Your commitment to ASB helps to continue the tradition. Thanks to all the authors for choosing ASB as a venue to present your research.

Enjoy the conference, UPEI, and PEI! Please let us know if there is anything we can do while visiting us.

Sincerely,

Wendy R. Carroll
Conference Chair, ASB

Introducing the Atlantic Schools of Business

First held in 1971, “the Atlantic Schools of Business (ASB) conference is one of the longest-running organizations of its type in North America. Consisting of the schools of business from the four Atlantic Provinces (New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland-Labrador) the schools collaborate on matters of mutual concern. Each autumn, a regional conference is hosted by one of the schools on a rotating basis.” (Haddon & Mills, 2008).

According to one history,¹ the seeds of ASB can be traced to a meeting of a small group of deans and directors from the region attending the opening ceremony for the new school of business at the University of Moncton in late 1964:

It was suggested by one and heartily agreed to by others that it would be beneficial to meet again, perhaps regularly, “to trade advice and stories”. Thus the seed was planted for the collaboration that became known as the Atlantic Schools of Business (ASB). The following year, in 1965, the first meeting took place (Haddon & Mills, 2008, p.4)

The first conference was held in 1971² and has been held every year since through an informal arrangement that saw the conference organization rotated across the different business schools. In 2005 the conference moved to a standing committee, involving representatives from at least one business school from each of the four regions. The following year, in 2006, the ASB History Project was established by the Sobey PhD Program and this has generated a series of histories, most of which have been presented at subsequent ASB conferences and can be found on the 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, and the 2010 ASB Proceedings.

¹ In the spirit of encouraging plural histories (see Mills & Durepos, 2010), we would stress that this is but of many possible accounts of ASB.

² Apart from the year – 1971 -- we do not have any information on where or when this conference was held and would appreciate any clues that people can send us: contact Albert Mills (ASB History Project) @ albert.mills@smu.ca

ASB 2011 Conference Theme

The 41st Atlantic School of Business Conference is being hosted this year by the University of Prince Edward Island, School of Business, from September 30 to October 2, 2011. The theme of this year's conference is "The Business of Business Schools".

As knowledge-based industries permeate the regional, national, and global economies, business schools responded by redirecting resources to remain relevant within this changing context. Yet for all the attention paid to these pillars of contemporary business education, questions remain about our ability to achieve the desired impacts. Do current pedagogical practices, curriculum, and institutional structures support student learning in these areas? Are students able, through existing programs, to develop skills needed to succeed in entrepreneurship, ethical management, innovation, or internationalization? Or are these values-laden, rather than skills-based, attributes that cannot be easily taught in even the best classrooms? Where are we succeeding? And where are we falling short? If these are indeed the pillars of modern day business education, how can we best prepare our students, contribute to the academic literature, and connect with the broader business community in ways that embrace these principles?

Come join the UPEI School of Business Administration from Friday, September 30 to Sunday, October 2, 2011 to discuss these important issues, enjoy some famous Island hospitality, and reconnect with colleagues and friends.

Note from Conference Organizers

There is a great deal of work to coordinate and administer all of the activities of the Atlantic Schools of Business Conference. In particular, the coordination of activities from the call for papers to the acceptance process is very extensive. We would like to thank the many people involved to help us with this central aspect of the conference. Thanks to Ms. Amanda Strongman who took on the initiative and perseverance to automate the paper submission process using Easy Chair this year. The use of this tool provided many insights from an organizing perspective that were invaluable. We would also like to thank the track chairs (see next section for a track chair list) who provided timely and helpful feedback about how to improve the process and managed the review process for the papers submitted to their tracks. Their commitment to getting reviews for all papers and providing feedback to authors involved an immense amount of work which we are thankful they took on. Finally, we would like to thank all the reviewers who took the time to review papers in their area of expertise and offer constructive feedback to authors to help improve their work. This process relies on volunteers from across the region. We are grateful that the spirit of academic development and achievement is alive and well! Your contributions in this area make the ASB conference possible!

Sincerely,

Wendy R. Carroll
